Definite Support of Secretary

Washington—The determining factor in the Republican presidential race will be the strength of the Coolidge wing of the party.

The slip of the tongue attributed to the president in his recent reference to Herbert Hoover is in itself not significant for Mr. Coolidge was merely indicating that he did not expect the secretary of commerce to resign during the pre-convention campaign but it will be given considerable significance by the friends of Mr. Hoover who are endeavoring to prove that the secretary of commerce alone of the Republican candidates is qualified to carry out the Coolidge policies.

MORE DRAFT TALK
If Mr. Coolidge is not himself drafted, and there is a recrudescence of draft talk, would he sit by and say nothing if some candidate diametrically opposed to his policies were in the forefront of attention? Neither Governor Lowden nor Vice President Daves has identified himself with the Coolidge administration and the revolt in the agricultural west which caused the president's recent disapproval is associated in the minds of certain Coolidge leaders with the presidential activities of supporters of those two candidates.

Of the outstanding candidates, Secretary Hoover and Senator Curtis of Kansas are outspoken in their support of President Coolidge. Mr. Curtis has uniformly supported Mr. Coolidge in the senate and Mr. Hoover announced last August after the I-don't-choose-to-run statement that he still hoped the president would be re-nominated and re-elected.

FRIEND OF PRESIDENT
Mr. Hoover's presence in the cabinet while all the important policies of the Coolidge administration were worked out together with Mr. Coolidge's well-known admiration for the secretary of commerce, are considered factors that would be helpful in the campaign itself if Mr. Hoover were nominated. It would give the Republican party an opportunity to emphasize continuity of administration as well as the strategy standing squarely on the Coolidge record.

But the big question is whether the Hoover element will gain the outposts of the president is to remain absolutely neutral, in fact if he were to have indicated that he wanted the secretary of commerce to resign just because his friends were booming him for the presidential nomination it might have been interpreted as an unfriendly act.

STRONG FOR HOOVER
Meanwhile the California delegation in the house has unanimously announced its support of Mr. Hoover and in California among the friends of Hiram Johnson who is up for re-nomination as a senator.

Mr. Johnson and Mr. Hoover fought out the issue in the presidential primaries before, but California's choice will be Mr. Hoover and the action now by the California delegation is taken to show the other Republicans of the country that there are no "ifs" and "buts" about California's support of Herbert Hoover.

SAYS FLOOD CONTROL PLANS NOT FEASIBLE

Veteran River Pilot Thinks
Water Should Be Run
Through Levees

Washington—(AP)—The Mississippi river's floods cannot be controlled, in the opinion of Captain Hugh T. Cruise of Hickman, Ky., a veteran riverboat pilot. He advocated pressed sections on the levees 50 miles apart to let the water overflow and "creep through the country, causing no trouble or danger."

Of his plan, which has been presented to the house flood control committee that has now completed hearings on the flood control problem, the river pilot said it was the only logical solution of Mississippi floods. "The depressions on the levees he termed 'concrete overflows' and explained that after the river had receded the water would be run back into the stream through flood gates."

CHARCOAL FUMES KILL AGENT AT EMBARRASS

Dead Man Had Warned
Others to Beware of Gas in Refrigerator Car

Embarrass—Walter Sellnow, 32, station agent at the Northwestern depot here for the past eight years, was asphyxiated by charcoal gas Wednesday afternoon while nailing down a salamander in a refrigerator car in which potatoes were to be loaded.

The burner had been placed in the car in the afternoon and Sellnow had previously warned others to keep out of the car because of the gas. He was last seen about 4 o'clock and the body was found at 6:30 when his wife went to the station when he did not come home for supper.

The position of the body indicated that Sellnow had driven one nail into the floor for the purpose of holding the burner in position when he was overcome. He was quite badly burned about the legs, having fallen across the salamander when he lost consciousness.

Physicians were called and a pulmotor used but life had been extinct for more than an hour.

Surviving are his widow formerly Miss Elida Huebner, of Neenah, and one son, Walter, Jr., 6. The body was taken to Gillette, where his parents reside, and the funeral will be held there, probably Saturday, with the Rev. Walter Lipp of the Zion Lutheran church of Embarrass, in charge.

Servant And Horse Will Take Part In Haig Rites

London—(AP)—The hymn of the church militant, "Onward Christian Soldiers," will be played when the body of Field Marshal Earl Haig leaves Westminster Abbey Friday.

At the request of Lady Haig there will be no funeral music or dirges when the body and the British empire pay their last tribute to the war leader.

In the procession of many titled and famous men who will accompany the body to the abbey from St. Columba's church, where it will lay in state Thursday, will be two humble and faithful servants of the field marshal. They will have the place of honor immediately behind the gun carriage carrying the coffin. The carriage will be that of the gun which fired the first British shot in the World war. It was used in the burial of the unknown soldier.

The faithful retainers are Sergeant Secrett, Haig's trusted servant for 50 years, and an old war horse which carried Haig through the campaigns in France. The horse is now in the possession of King George, who loaned it to grace the last pageant in its master's honor.

KEEP WET OUT OF WHITEHOUSE, M'ADOO WARNS

Prohibition Law Won't Be Enforced if Smith Is Arrested, Virginians Told

Washington—(AP)—The political breach between William G. McAdoo and Governor Smith of New York that began with the 1924 Democratic convention stood at greater dimensions Thursday with every indication that it will continue so long as Smith is a presidential possibility.

McAdoo in Richmond, Virginia, Wednesday night denounced the governor's views on prohibition enforcement, attacked his recent utterances on the enforcement situation in his own state and sounded a warning to the Democratic party that it must never send a "wet" to the White House.

RAFS WET LEADERS
Describing the issue as one that must be fought to a conclusion in the 1928 campaign, McAdoo said "the supreme need is to put law enforcement in the hands of the people."

In his speech before a gathering under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon league, the woman's Christian temperance union and other dry organizations, was the high light of a night that brought expressions from Smith and two other Democratic presidential luminaries, Governor Ritchie of Maryland and Senator Reed of Missouri.

Those of Smith and Reed concerned the subject of national defense and disclosed their difference of opinion as to the wisdom of large expenditures for military and naval establishments.

Referring to Smith's candidacy, Mr. McAdoo declared it an "absurdity" to expect that a president hostile to prohibition would endanger prohibition enforcement.

CALLS PLAN UNSOUND
"An attempt is made," he said, "to convince the country that no matter if a wet is elected president, the constitution and laws will be enforced. This is both unsound and untrue."

The White House in the hands of the liquor interests would be a veritable Gibraltar of off-licence operations and the doom of the 18th amendment would be written boldly upon the face of the constitution.

Mr. McAdoo devoted much of his address to the fact that New York has no state enforcement law and to Governor Smith's statement that despite that "they derive upon the state the sacred duty of sustaining the 18th amendment and the Volstead law."

"His effort," McAdoo said, "is apparently to create the impression that no state enforcement statute is necessary because even in the absence of such a statute the state officials are under an obligation to enforce the Volstead act. This position is entirely misleading and has no jurisdiction in law."

HERE'S HIS REPLY
Albany, N. Y.—(AP)—"The gentleman doesn't know his constitution," was Gov. Smith's sarcastic comment Thursday on the address delivered by William G. McAdoo at Richmond, Virginia, Wednesday night, in which Mr. McAdoo attacked the governor's attitude on the prohibition question.

"Further than that," the governor sauntered nothing.

DRY UNION DEMANDING
STAND ON PROHIBITION
Chicago—(AP)—The Women's Christian Temperance Union, "God's Giddy" in this temperance crusade, as Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of the Methodist Episcopal church characterized it—had a definite program Thursday to bring political candidates out into the open on the wet-dry question.

A resolution of Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president, adopted Wednesday insertion of full law enforcement planks in party platforms, a pledge to put enforcement into the hands of its friends, and aid in the enactment of further legislation to insure enforcement.

Copies of the resolution will be sent to every party leader from national to ward committeemen.

U. S. TO SIGN PEACE TREATY WITH FRANCE

Pact to Be Agreed on Monday
Calls for Arbitration Before
Conflict

Washington—(AP)—Negotiations for a new Franco-American treaty of arbitration have been successful and the documents, including a declaration against war as an instrument of national policy, will be signed here next Monday. The day will mark the bicentennial of the first treaty between the two countries.

The new pact will substitute for the Root arbitration treaty which will expire February 27 and will be followed by a revision of similar agreements between this and other foreign countries.

The preamble of the treaty contains the declaration against war, and expression of hope that eventually all governments will abandon armed conflict in favor of peaceful settlement of all disputes under the treaty, however, should a controversy arise between France and the United States that fails of diplomatic treatment, the arbitration formula must be approved by the American senate.

In addition, the agreement bars from arbitration any disputes concerning purely domestic affairs, involving the interests of third parties or the Monroe doctrine.

The treaty will interlock with the Bryan conciliation pact between the United States and foreign countries to efforts toward peaceful termination of mutual problems. In the case of France the Bryan treaty, which remains effective until denounced by either party, stipulates that neither will declare war until a year after conciliatory efforts have failed to reach an adjustment.

The treaty to be signed Monday includes mention of the Bryan pact and is the intention of the state department to incorporate its provisions in arbitration agreements to be signed with other countries which are not parties to Bryan treaties.

HAVANA CONFERENCE
SEEKS COOPERATION
Committee Working on Plan for Universal Development on Land and in Air

Havana—(AP)—A report which was expected to provide ground for discussion of the Tarna Africa dispute was before the public international law committee of the Pan-American Conference Thursday.

The report was prepared by Oreste Ferrara, Cuban ambassador to Washington, on the general topic of treaties. It discussed the procedure in conditions which prevailed at the time of the signature of a treaty.

According to the report of Ferrara, in cases in which one of the signatories shall decide that conditions existing at the time of the signing of the treaty have been completely altered or removed during the intervening period, the dissenting nation shall communicate its objections to the other party to the treaty, which shall thereby be suspended unless the dissenting nation is satisfied by the other party.

Proposed for Pan-American cooperation in land, sea and river traffic were submitted to the committee on communication for further consideration.

Senator Henry P. Fletcher, United States, on Monday announced that he had been elected to the position of extension of the proposed commercial aviation convention to include all nations, whether they are members of the Pan-American union or not.

Another matter before the public international law committee was consideration of the duties of countries in time of war in neighboring states.

St. Thomas, Virgin Island—(AP)—Porto Rico, which Ponca de Leon conquered in his search for the fountain of youth, Thursday was the goal of the youthful adventurer from the west—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

For the long eagle, it was but a short hop of 75 miles from here to San Juan, the island's capital, half of which was over the water separating the lesser Antilles from the greater Antilles.

Businessmen and tourists have flocked here since Lindbergh's route lay, but the people of these islands will delight to honor the spirit of adventure which they found in Colonel Lindbergh.

So strenuous was the round of festivities and greetings with which St. Thomas honored the flier that it was estimated that he appeared before a total of 1,000 people.

A technical procession was held to pass the narrow body of the flier past interested houses and tropical palms as the people paid their final tribute before Lindbergh returned to rest for today's adventure.

ALDERMEN VOTE TO BUY $20,000 WORTH OF FIRE EQUIPMENT

Authorize Water Commission to Install Auxiliary Pumping Unit in Plant

Fire equipment to cost approximately $20,000 will be added to the local department immediately, it was decided by the city council Wednesday night.

Here is the new equipment requested by Fire Chief George P. McGilgan in view of the lessons learned at the Zuelke building fire:

A triple combination apparatus equipped with a 1,000 gallon pump capable of delivering water at 120 pound pump pressure. Truck is to be equipped with a 60 gallon chemical tank with 200 feet of three quarter inch hose and a one quarter inch nozzle.

A 600 gallon pumper to be installed on the four cylinder American LaFrance hose truck now in service;
Two 3 way Eastman deluge sets;
Two single shut off nozzles;
Six Burrell AC gas masks;
Two electric hand lanterns;
One Piezometer for measuring flows of water;

1,500 feet of 2 1/2 inch fire hose with standard coupling.

Following a short talk by Joseph J. Plank of the water commission, and A. J. Hall, superintendent of the pumping station, the council approved plans to install an auxiliary pump at the filtration station during the next six months, the type to be selected by Mr. Hall.

Little opposition was offered to the new fire equipment and the new pump at the pumping station was offered by the aldermen. It was explained that after the Zuelke fire, members of the fire and water committee had called in the fire chief and the superintendent of the pumping station to review the work at the fire and make recommendations they thought necessary. These recommendations were passed upon favorably by the committee and placed before the council.

Chief McGilgan explained to the council that practically all of the equipment asked for was for fighting fires from the outside of buildings. He said that the city's equipment at the present time can cope with fire if his men can get to it inside a building, but when they are driven about they have an insufficient number of deluge sets to turn heavy streams of water on a structure. Deluge sets were explained as equipment which permits running two or more lines from the pumper into one hose.

Chief McGilgan said the pumping station supplied plenty of water to fight the fire. He said if more pressure was put in the mains as suggested by "street fire fighters," might have wrecked the pipes.

Mr. Hall stated that an auxiliary pump had been under consideration for some time as a protection against possible breakdown of other pumps. The cost of the new equipment had been estimated at $5,000. The type pumper had not been decided on, however, as gasoline drive and motor drive pumps are under consideration.

An objection to purchase of equipment was that the city could not afford to purchase $20,000 worth of fire fighting apparatus at the present time because the budget could not stand the expenditure. Suggestions also were made that only part of the equipment be bought. When the vote was taken only one alderman opposed buying equipment recommended by the fire chief and the fire and water committee.

HOME TALENT ENTERTAINS FORM FOLKS-WEEK VISITORS

Madison—(AP)—Six plays and four "stunts" are given in the first state home talent tournament ever held in Wisconsin, the concluding feature of this year's Farm Folks' Week program.

The plays and the vaudeville are presented by community clubs of six different Wisconsin counties, each of which was the winner in local tournaments, held prior to the state contest. The counties with players in this tournament, scheduled in the agricultural hall auditorium here Friday afternoon and evening are Pierce, Portage, Dane, Racine, Wood, and Clark.

Farm Folks' Week visitors make up the audience, which is limited to 650 people by the size of the hall, but indications are that the demand for seats will be considerably in excess of the supply. D. B. Lindstrom, rural sociologist of the College of Agriculture, in charge of the contest has planned for repetition of the two highest scores in the plays, and the two high ranking stunts on Saturday afternoon.

The Groundhog

I WANT to tell you folks that have the perverted idea that I sleep away all my time until the second day of February, that you're all wet. I'm no such sleepy head.

Just take one squint at the accompanying picture taken of me and my suburban home. It is one that I took from the old family album, and it was taken—now let me see—yes, on the twentieth of January. So you see all that sleep stuff is the bunk.

Can't imagine where the rumor ever got started that me and my shadow had anything to do with the weather. And who could have thought that I would be so dumb as to go back into my winter home as a recluse because the sun was shining in February? Now, I ask you, what could be worse? But just let me give you folks a little advice—if you really want to know what kind of weather we are going to have after Feb. 2, just ask the Post-Crescent weather man. This little piece has been written for his vindication.

NO NEW FIREWORKS IN BRIBERY CHARGE

Salesman Refused Permission to Answer Gmeiner's Charge to Council

The expected fireworks over the charge of bribery made by Alderman W. H. Gmeiner against H. H. Moulton, salesman for a tractor company which had sold a machine to Appleton, flared out at the council meeting Wednesday night when Moulton was refused permission to address the council.

Later in the evening Gmeiner told the council that he had challenged Moulton to take the case into court and he repeated the bribery charge he had made at a previous council meeting.

Moulton was refused permission to talk to the council because of the objection of Alderman Mike Steinhauer. The salesman asked the mayor if he could state his story and Steinhauer immediately objected.

Nothing more was said about the matter until shortly before adjournment when Gmeiner said he "rose to a question of personal privilege" and that he agreed with Steinhauer in refusing to permit Moulton to speak.

"Mr. Moulton has the right under our laws to bring me into court either by criminal process or by commencing a civil suit for damages," Mr. Gmeiner

Mr. Hall is to report to the commission in the near future. The commission voted to buy two reels of lead pipe to be used in the distributing system. A roll accounts totaling $1316.66 and bills of $95.98 were allowed.

"I challenged him before and do so again to take this question into the courts," Moulton said after the council meeting that the whole matter was a frame-up and that he wanted an opportunity to state his story to the council. He wanted to know why the charge of bribery wasn't made when the tractor was purchased, instead of weeks later.

Moulton intimated Thursday morning that he had no intention of taking the matter into court.

MRS. HICKS GUILTY AND SANE, JURY SAYS AFTER LONG SESSION

Milwaukee Woman Will Be Sentenced for Setting Fire to New London House

Mrs. Margaret Hicks, 55, Milwaukee, was found guilty of arson by a municipal court jury at 11:45 Wednesday night after the jurors had found her to be sane.

The case went to the jury at noon Wednesday with instructions to consider Mrs. Hicks' plea that she was not guilty because of insanity. At 2 o'clock the jury reported it had found Mrs. Hicks sane and it was then sent back to determine whether she was guilty. Almost nine hours were required before the jury returned a verdict.

Judge Theodore Berg said Thursday morning Mrs. Hicks would be sentenced Monday morning.

The trial opened Monday morning and 25 witnesses were called. Mrs. Hicks was charged with setting fire to her house in New London early on the morning of July 26. She was arrested following an investigation by W. E. Finnegan, Green Bay, deputy state fire marshal. Arraigned in municipal court in August Mrs. Hicks was held for preliminary hearing and was confined in the county jail where she was examined by two Appleton doctors and declared insane. She was sent to the Northern Hospital for Insane at Oshkosh.

450 MILES ON A GALLON OF GAS

The president of the General Motors Research Corporation, in a recent article points out that there is enough energy in a gallon of gasoline, if converted 100% in mechanical energy, to run a four cylinder car 450 miles. Much experimenting has been done to convert this latent power into mechanical energy, but at present the annual waste in gasoline is appalling.

In an effort to conserve gasoline and to increase motor efficiency, Mr. Oliver, noted automotive engineer has perfected an invention that slashes gas costs to the minimum. He is launching a campaign to equip every car with this wonderful invention, and as he is now appointing agents, is willing to send a sample for trial. For full particulars write Mr. Oliver today in care of The Whirlwind Mfg. Co., 999-3150 E. Third St., Milwaukee, Wis.

LAABS IN FAVOR OF GASOLINE TAX BOOST

Town of Grand Chute Chairman Says It Is Only Fair Way to Pay for Roads

No action can be taken at the present special session of the legislature on the proposed 3-cent gas tax, Assemblyman Oscar Schniege informed A. W. Laabe, chairman of the Town of Grand Chute at a recent letter. Mr. Laabe has written to the assemblymen expressing himself in favor of the 3-cent tax as the only reasonable way of making the persons who use county and state roads pay for them.

Newspapers throughout the state widely advertised the fact that the gas tax would be considered at the present session, the assemblyman said, but the report was erroneous. No action is being made to take up that particular problem at this time.

The action of Mr. Laabe, as chairman of the town of Grand Chute and a member of the county board is in line with the action of the county board in voting in favor of the three cent tax at their meeting in November, 1927.

The people who use the roads should pay for their upkeep, chairman Laabe said, "and the gas tax is the only sane way of making them do so. The more a man uses the highways the more gas he'll burn and the more money he'll pay for upkeep of the roads. The present gas tax is a good thing but the money received from it which averages $25 a mile is not enough to pay for the upkeep of county highways."

WARNING SOUNDED AGAINST DIRTY MILK

Deputy Health Officer Finds That Most Dealers Follow Sanitary Laws

Tests of milk and cream sold in Appleton made during the past three weeks by Theodore Sanders, deputy health officer, show that while some dairymen are selling products that test far above the average there are a few who just passed the limit fixed by law. The tests also showed that sediment in some milk was very heavy.

In those cases where the sediment test showed there was dirt in the milk Mr. Sanders has issued orders to have the milk more carefully bottled. Re-tests are to be made to see that the orders are being carried out.

State laws provide that milk must test not less than 3 per cent butterfat, and cream should contain not less than 18 per cent. Mr. Sanders said. A few of the tests showed that some of the milk and cream just passed the minimum requirements. The tests showed, however, that most dairies are furnishing milk with a butter fat content that averaged about 3.5 per cent while the cream tests showed an average of about 19 per cent.

The highest cream test was 24 per cent and the highest milk test was 4.6 per cent.

A penalty of $25 is fixed by state law in case a dealer's milk is found to contain less than the stipulated amount of butter fat.

NEWS OF NEENAH AND MENASHA SOCIETY

COUNCIL VOTES TO INCREASE CLERKS YEARLY PAY BY $300

Aldermen in Long Session Before They Decide to Boost Salary

Neenah—The salary of H. S. Zemlock as city clerk, was increased from $2,700 per year to $3,000, Wednesday evening at the meeting of the city council. The vote on the raise was six for and four against following an hour's conference in the committee room and also following an all evening informal session of the council, the night before. Mr. Zemlock also is secretary of the board of health, secretary of the board of public works, secretary and clerk of the water works commission and member of the board of review. Aldermen Arneemann, Nelson, Stulp, Herziger, Rasmussen and Schmidt voted for the increase and Aldermen Eberlein, Laursen, Hanson and Martin were opposed. Alderman Laursen said he thought the job did not warrant the salary although Mr. Zemlock was capable of earning that amount.

Other salaries set by the ordinances and adopted Wednesday evening were that of the mayor, $400; aldermen, $150; office assistants, $1,050; city treasurer, including salary as member of the board of review, $1,500; city engineer, $2,400; city attorney, $900; city physician, $500; port commissioner, $450; street commissioner, $1,800; assessors, $6 a day; board of review, $6 a day; members of election board, $4 a day; sealer of weights and measures, $25.00 a month.

An ordinance was passed authorizing an automobile light testing station according to the state law. An ordinance will be drawn to specify the duties of the station which will be under the supervision of the police department. The fee will be not to exceed $1 for testing lights which are found defective. The establishment of the station will not cost the city anything. This was explained by a representative of a concern which is to furnish the equipment to the garage selected for the purpose.

The mayor made his appointments on the election boards. In the first ward the inspectors will be George Christoph, Clarence Arneemann and J. C. Denhardt; ballot clerks, Stanley Johnson and J. J. Schuetzer. In the second ward, inspectors, H. C. Christoph, E. J. Boehm, R. A. Brown; ballot clerks, Harry Letourneau and H. E. Hawkinson. In the third ward, inspectors, J. P. Prebensen, M. McCullum and Robert Law; ballot clerks, Richard O'Brien and M. J. Fourth ward, inspectors, A. Hising, J. C. Jensen and R. E. Austin; ballot clerks, Emil Harder and Robert Anderson. Fifth ward, inspectors, Charles Herick, J. Blenker and W. Herick; ballot clerks, Fred Schmidt and Hans Hawkinson. The mayor recommended that at future elections the services of clerks of election be dispensed with and also that at the ensuing spring election the city clerk be authorized to appoint a special registration deputy at each poll to complete registration of electors if in his judgment enough voters remain unregistered at such time to make such deputies necessary. The recommendation was adopted.

The placing of wig-wag signals at Franklin and Washington and crossings of the Chicago-Northwestern railway, was held over until a future meeting. Bids for three tanks of road oil will be asked. A license to sell non-intoxicating liquors was granted the Neenah Amusement company with club rooms in the basement of the Eagle building.

Neenah—A touring car owned by W. C. Wing and driven by Anthony Kuehler, was slightly damaged Wednesday evening when it was struck by a Soo line freight engine at the Sweeney crossing. He turned the car to the right and started down the tracks but not before the engine had scratched the side of the machine.

The passengers were a number of young women who had been attending Miss Eleanor Wing's wedding. They were uninjured.

MAYOR'S SALARY BOOSTED BY $700 AT COUNCIL MEETING

Council Adopts New Resolution Providing for Registration of Voters

After voting down an ordinance to increase salaries of two members of the police department by $10 a month the common council Wednesday night increased the salary of the mayor from $1,500 to $2,200 a year and authorized the clerk to advertise for bids for furnishing the city with fire fighting equipment estimated at $20,000.

Alderman C. D. Thompson, Second ward, urged the increased pay for the mechanic and patrol driver of the police department because, he said, they were given increases of only $5 a month while pay of men doing a similar work in the fire department was increased $15. Before salary increases were made, however, the police department employees were receiving $10 a month more than the firemen and the new salary scale was adopted with a view of equalizing their pay.

Alderman Thompson argued, however, that the policemen should have been given $15 increases with the firemen but other members of the council disagreed with him.

Mayor Rule cited salaries paid to mayors in other cities to back up his argument that the pay the Appleton executive receives is insufficient.

"I don't care whether I am reelected or not the salary which is paid the mayor of this city is not sufficient," Mayor Rule said. "I must put in practically full time in the office and I incur a great personal expense as the result of being mayor and the same conditions exist for whoever holds the office and I don't believe its fair to ask the mayor of this city to work for $1,500."

After several informal ballots were taken, nine aldermen voted to fix the salary at $2,200 and a resolution fixing the salary at that figure was adopted.

Bids for installation of traffic control signals at five street intersections were opened over the objections of five aldermen who contended the city has no intention of awarding contracts at this time. The lights are to be installed at College-ave and Morrison-st, College-ave and Appleton-st, College-ave and Superior-st, Prospect-ave and S. Cherry-st.

"I am voicing the opinion of several aldermen when I suggest that we do not open these bids," said Alderman Mark Catlin who started the fight to prevent the bids from being opened.

"This action would be unfair to the contractors who have submitted bids," Mayor Rule said.

"I am trying to protect the contractor," Mr. Catlin answered. "I am sure that they would rather not have the bids opened if they thought the contract was not to be awarded as sometime later we may call for the bids and making public the present bids would be an injustice."

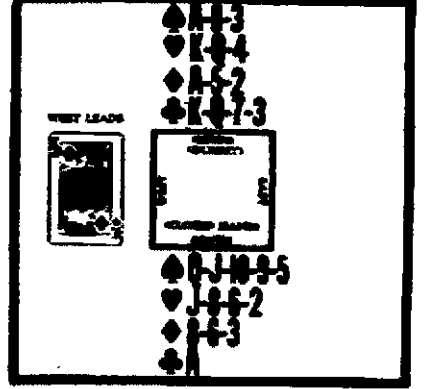

Aldermen Jerry Callahan, W. H. Vander Heyden, Phillip Vogt, Fred Wiese and Catlin voted against opening the bids.

Three bids were submitted as follows: Langstadt Electric company $3,317; Arst-Killgren Electric company, $4,597; Toheim Oil and Tank company of Fort Wayne, Ind., two

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

Yesterday I gave an Auction Bridge hand and asked how the Declarer should plan to play it when Dummy's hand was exposed. South is the Declarer; Spades the trump. The hand follows:—

The Declarer can see at first glance that he has as possible losers two Diamonds, one Spade and one Heart; should he lose these four tricks, he will fail to make game. He will not lose to the adverse Spade King if it be in the West hand, and he put proposals, no. 1 $2,265, no. 2, $3,970. Plans for a trunk sewer through the Riverview Golf club for resurfacing N. Oneida-st from College-ave to Lawrence-st, were approved by the council and the clerk was authorized to advertise for bids.

Mayor Rule's veto of a resolution adopted at the last council meeting providing that the city engineer engage a competent electrical engineer to make a study of traffic control lights, was sustained by a unanimous vote Mayor Rule said he vetoed this measure because he felt that a study was not necessary.

The resolution adopted at the last meeting ordering the city clerk to engage deputies to help him obtain a complete registration of the voters in the city under the new state law, was withdrawn by Alderman George T. Richard and a new resolution was presented and adopted.

Mayor Rule has vetoed the former measure on the ground that the council had no authority to order the city clerk to deputize assistants. The new resolution declares it is the "sense of the council that the city clerk proceed to deputize such persons as he deems necessary." For each registration made by the deputies there is to receive 5 cents to be paid from the general fund.

The city clerk was authorized to advertise for bids for sidewalks to be constructed by the city in 1928.

EDUCATION NEED MORE CRITICISM

Farm Week Visitors Warned Americans Are Too Satisfied With Themselves

Madison—America's education teaches its citizens too much satisfaction in themselves and in their moral and spiritual accomplishments, J. K. Hart of the University department of education said at the Farm Folks Week meeting Thursday.

"If we had a real education in America today we would be clearing up a good deal of the moral, political and economic angles in which we are more or less satisfied," Prof. Hart said.

"There is much that is unsatisfactory in the education of children, but we shall never be able to rid ourselves of those unsatisfactory conditions until we have developed an adult generation that will welcome serious criticism of education."

Mr. Hart advanced seven major criticisms of present-day American education. They are, he said:

That education has been thought of as something belonging only to childhood.

That education has been limited within the years of "childhood" and "youth" to experiences and lessons gained in schools, neglecting the world of action and emotions that lie outside the schools.

That education has been identified with the mastery of certain specific materials disregarding the age of the child being taught.

That education is something that is "handed down" from wise age to ignorant or foolish youth."

That education is something that the civilized generation imposes on the uncivilized "in our times," Mr. Hart said, "but the only salvage race that is left is the youthful generation. We are afraid of our children and the only thing we can think of to do with them is to hire a lot of evil-doers who will work with and on them."

That education as organized in schools has been too narrowly selective of its materials.

That education has been too theoretical and speculative.

THE LEADER OF THE CONFEDERACY

With the approach of Lincoln's birthday, observed quite generally over the entire land, the recent observance throughout the Southern states of the birthday of General Robert E. Lee, symbolic of a great struggle, of the aspirations, trials and sufferings through one of the stormiest periods in any nation's history, should hardly be overlooked.

General Lee, his character and accomplishments, typifies "the lost cause." It was upon his shoulders that rested the responsibility for defending the Confederacy, and to his genius is attributable in such large measure the tenacious and glorious, though unsuccessful, revolt. His decision to go with the Southern states serves to demonstrate the loose nature of national feelings in the United States in 1861, for Lee was opposed to secession, yet he believed, as did so many others at that time, that his loyalty was not to the national government but to the state where he resided, Virginia.

On the brink of the great conflict he wrote: "We are between a state of anarchy and civil war. May God avert us from both. I must be patient and wait the end for I can do nothing to hasten or retard it; I cannot anticipate a greater calamity for the country than the dissolution of the Union."

Lee was then recognized as one of the most capable officers in the regular army of the United States and was offered by President Lincoln the command of the army then forming to put down rebellion and secession. His reply to Blair, who offered the commission on behalf of President Lincoln, states clearly his attitude: "I declined the offer he made me to take command of the army that was to be brought into the field, stating as candidly as I could, that though opposed to secession and deprecating war, I could not take part in an invasion of the Southern states." Two days thereafter he resigned his commission in the United States army. At that time Virginia had not seceded but the clouds of war were gathering fast and Virginia was preparing for secession. It made Lee the head of its army and when it formally joined the Southern cause he was put in charge of the Southern military efforts. How he directed them is a matter of history, yet we all must appreciate that it was his singular ability, his lofty purpose and his great personal charm that made possible the stubborn defense to the Union onslaughts. His men for the most part were badly armed, wretchedly equipped and insufficiently fed, and yet it must be admitted that with Stonewall Jackson and J. E. B. Stuart to his aid for the better part of three years he outgeneraled the Union army by the very force of his strategic and tactical ability.

When the time to yield had arrived, when further resistance was impossible and surrender had become inevitable, he magnanimously addressed his troops by saying: "I think it is the duty of every citizen in the present condition of the country to do all in his power to aid in the restoration of peace and harmony and not in any way to oppose the policy of the state or general government directed to that object;" and then he himself exerted every influence and pressure to remove and lessen the scars of war. No better standard of his character could be found than in the fact that after peace was restored and the state of Virginia, wishing to show its appreciation of his services, had presented him with the sum of $20,000.00, he, a poor man, declined to receive the gift excepting on the understanding that he would be permitted to use it for the "education of the poor, particularly the children of such as had fallen in defense of the country," and carrying out his expressed purpose he gave the gift to an academy which has since developed into Washington and Lee University.

Virginia presented his statue to the national government and it is now one of those placed in the rotunda of the capitol at Washington. In the very acceptance of this gift by the national government may be seen that commendable spirit of restraint and forgiveness which has meant so much in the tranquility of the country and its people since that time. In reality it is but another phase of the spirit of toleration, the willingness to see that the Southern cause was not entirely without merit, the willingness to understand that the other side is entitled to its opinion and then the greater willingness, to forget the past, to overlook the discord, to join hands again in knitting up the torn fabric of the state.

The attitude of the South towards the memory of Lee is best expressed in the language of Benjamin Hill, of Georgia: "He was a foe without hate, a friend without treachery, a soldier without cruelty, and a victim without murmuring. He was a public officer without vices, a private citizen without wrong, a neighbor without reproach, a Christian without hypocrisy, and a man without guilt. He was a Caesar without his ambition, Frederick without his tyranny, Napoleon without his selfishness, and Washington without his reward. He was as obedient to authority as a servant and royal in authority as a king. He was as gentle as a woman in life, pure and modest as a virgin in thought, watchful as a Roman Vestal, submissive to law as Socrates, and grand in battle as Achilles."

HITCHING WAGONS TO STARS

A Florida man is laying plans for the construction of a giant rocket, in which he hopes to be shot from the earth to the planet Venus.

This is altogether a laudable ambition, even though reports thus far published fail to state just what he expects to do after he gets there or how he thinks he is going to get back. A great many of us, at one time or another, have wanted very much to go sailing off to a distant star.

Indeed, you might say that the yearning to do that is every man's heritage. This is especially true in youth. There are times, particularly when one is young and easily hurt, when the breaking of illusions is so painful that this earth seems rather a makeshift planet, at best, and the unattainable stars shine very invitingly.

This spirit, too, is very valuable. It propels men in all manner of ways and into all manner of pursuits. It causes some to write poetry, to paint pictures, to compose music; it leads others into paths of industrial success, turning them into powerful men of money; it sends still others into public life, making senators, judges or presidents of them.

For no one ever rose very far without first becoming dissatisfied with his surroundings. The desire to leap to the farthest star must, of necessity, remain ungratified, unless perchance the Florida man should find his rocket unexpectedly practical; but in his vain efforts to gratify his desires a man will, sometimes in spite of himself, do good service for himself and his times.

So perhaps it will be just as well if this big rocket proves a dud. If it should be perfected the earth would suffer too great an exodus. Not one of us but would, at some time or other, try his luck on another planet in preference to this one. But, lacking rockets, we stay here and do the best we can—and, unconsciously, make this earth a better place to live.

GO TO YOUR BANKER FIRST

Here is a little word for the average citizen who has saved a little money and wants to invest it.

Get the advice of your banker before you buy any stocks. Even if the board of directors of the company you plan to invest in includes some men in whose ability and integrity there is no doubt, don't assume from that that the stock is necessarily safe.

A middle-western business commission recently announced that prominent names on a directorate cannot be accepted as guaranties of safety. Unfortunately, it was announced, there are always a few prominent men who allow themselves to be named directors of new concerns, but who do not see to it that these concerns are conducted properly.

The banker is in a position to know. Showy directorates do not impress him. Talk to him before you buy any stocks.

INSULIN FOR UNDERWEIGHT

Insulin is the internal secretion of groups of specialized cells in the pancreas (called islands of Langerhans, in honor of the young man who first described them 60 years ago). The pancreas is an important gland of digestion. In animals it is called the stomach sweetbread. Why sweetbread, I wonder. Perhaps the name was given to it because the chief function of the pancreatic juice is to convert starch into soluble sugar, in the intestine. All carbohydrate food, that is all starches and sugars, must be converted into glucose in digestion. This glucose is the form the food takes in the blood. A healthy person has a certain constant amount of glucose or sugar in his blood at all times. In order to utilize this blood sugar as fuel some insulin is necessary, and that's what the islands of Langerhans are for. If there is too little insulin available, the individual is out of luck. In diabetes there is plenty of sugar in the blood but not enough insulin to enable the body to burn the fuel. As Dr. Don H. Duffie puts it, in his "Book for Us Diabetics," the patient is starving for sugar while his blood is full of it.

Chemists at the University of Kiel find that the weight of undernourished persons may be brought up to or near normal by regularly administering to them small doses of insulin and feeding them liberally with carbohydrates about the same time, such items as bread with honey or sugar, or pure lump sugar. Personally, I should prefer some nice old fashioned molasses on my bread, if I were a skinny wisp. Of course insulin must be injected hypodermically; no effect can be obtained by insulin or any similar thing given by mouth.

The poor boy whose bones takes his carbohydrate rations just before and after the insulin injection, twice a day. The class of patient most likely to benefit from this treatment is subject to constitutional leanness and a birdlike appetite, pecking at perfectly good food, trifling or toying with it, or even shrinking away from it. You see, such an individual probably has functional insufficiency of the islands of Langerhans, a shortage in insulin of his own manufacture.

The effect of the insulin is often striking. Even one dose creates a new activity of the sulking islands, it seems, for the patient experiences an intense hunger, a veritable craving for the very sweets that he ordinarily finds cloying. He is not only hungry like an honest hired man, at mealtime, but he hankers after tidbits or knickknacks between meals. The more he eats the more water is retained in his body; one effect of starch or sugar, say candy, is to retain water in the tissues. This water quickly fattens him up, rounds out the hollows and—well, it should be obvious that if the patient is a lady the insulin treatment is most desirable. Insulin for lovely curves and all that sort of thing.

The Kiel doctors consider 10 unit doses twice a day enough. One unit of insulin today costs something less than 2 cents to produce and market, including the druggist's profit. To leave a neutral or alkaline ash when oxidized in the body; and meat, fish, fowl, eggs, tend to leave an acid ash. The citrus fruits, tomatoes, leafy salad vegetables or greens, and potatoes, are particularly useful to increase alkalinity or diminish acidity. It seems to me quite futile for any individual to attempt to select a diet by this rule.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Food Fallacy

Please send me a list of alkaline and acid foods. (J. L.)

Answer—I have no such lists. In a general way, with many individual exceptions, the fruits, greens, vegetables tend to leave a neutral or alkaline ash when oxidized in the body; and meat, fish, fowl, eggs, tend to leave an acid ash. The citrus fruits, tomatoes, leafy salad vegetables or greens, and potatoes, are particularly useful to increase alkalinity or diminish acidity. It seems to me quite futile for any individual to attempt to select a diet by this rule.

Food Superstition

I am fond of lemon juice in water (no sugar). This enables me to drink fruit juice. (J. L.)
Answer—When I have squeezed out the juice of the lemon I like to eat the inside pulp. But some people say this is harmful and will eventually cause cancer of the stomach. I eat about one lemon a day. (Mrs. R. O. S.)

Answer—It is perfectly wholesome. The lemon juice or the pulp will have no different effect than orange juice or pulp would have. The only difference is the smaller amount of fruit sugar in the lemon, which is therefore not so nourishing as an orange.

Food Facts

What vitamins are lacking in wheat bread, and what foods make up for its deficiency in this respect? Is there any material difference between white bread and whole wheat bread, in vitamins? (Mrs. D. W. M.)

Answer—White bread is very deficient in all the vitamins. Whole wheat bread, (if really whole wheat) is less deficient, though does not contain enough vitamins for man. Such additions to the bread diet as butter, fresh milk, greens and fresh vegetables, make up for the vitamin deficiency of bread.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Thursday, Feb. 5, 1903

C. G. Cannon went to Madison that night to attend a meeting of the official board of visitors of the State University of which board he was a member.

Fourteen tables of skat were in play at the skat tournament held the previous night by Fose and Zuehlke. Dudley H. Pierce won the gold watch given as first prize. Joseph Grasseberger, W. J. Baker, Anton Ritzler and Matt Heid won the other prizes.

About $2,000 was the appropriation for stock and produce premiums set by the directors of the Appleton Fair association for the following year. It was expected that the fair would be bigger than the previous year because of improvements made and the possibility of horses participating in the Wisconsin Driving meet in August waiting over for the fair.

Appleton men at the funeral of James Foley, fire chief of Milwaukee, were the Rev. W. J. Fitzmaurice, J. J. Sherman, D. J. Doyle, H. Routhier, Frank Belter, George McCham, Michael Garvey, Dr. J. V. Canavan.

TEN YEARS AGO
Thursday, Jan. 21, 1918

Two Americans were killed and four wounded in a raid by Germans that day. Twenty persons were killed and fifty persons injured in an air raid over Paris the previous night. One German airplane and its crew were brought down.

Former President Theodore Roosevelt and United States senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois were to be the speakers at the patriotic mass meeting called by the Wisconsin Loyalty Legion for Feb. 13 at Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bull entertained about 30 persons at a progressive cards the previous Tuesday evening at the Northwestern house. Prizes at schafkopf were won by Mrs. E. F. McGrath and George McDonald.

Miss Katherine Bellows entertained the Gamma Omega club at her home on State-st the previous evening.

Seven arrests were made in Appleton during the month of January.
Mr. and Mrs. Louis I. Mann were to leave Saturday for Florida where they were to spend the remainder of the winter.

Another Groundhog Sees a Shadow

HASKIN WRITES TODAY

CHASING THE COLD BUG

Washington, D. C. — The time of year is in the offing when the average individual will do well to lay in an extra supply of handkerchiefs and take a peek into the medicine closet in the bathroom to make sure that it is stocked with his favorite remedies for the malady that is about to descend upon him. It is the time too when the wide-awake druggist takes care that he is adequately supplied with all the specifics for this malady and is prepared to do a rush business. It is the time when the sneezing begins, when the eyes water, when the nose does what a nose shouldn't do—runs and gets all red—and when the head feels like morning after a stormy night, bones and joints ache, and voices grow husky and hoarse, oftentimes fading away to mere whispers.

The beginning of the first period of the year during which people are most likely to have colds. The other period about October 1.

Little as doctors and other scientists have learned about colds they know that the average person is allotted two hard colds, of the common or garden variety, each twelve months. They have acquired this information from experience and statistics, however, rather than from their knowledge of what causes a cold, what it really is, and what should be done about it.

Of course there are some superior people who never have colds, others to whom life is just one long sniffle, and a minority who manage to struggle along with only one cold a year. But the doctors have found that the average is two per capita annually, and that as a rule, the periods when most people have the most colds are those beginning February 1 and October 1. Equally of course all doctors know how to treat colds, and with the right kind of cooperation from their patients are usually successful, but still and all, the cold remains one of the great mystery maladies of mankind that therapeutics has not yet solved.

FIVE-YEAR STUDY TO BE MADE

However, the mystery is to be solved if science can turn the trick. The cold bug or germ, if there is such a thing, is to be chased to its lair, captured, dissected, and studied until everything is known about it that can be known. Francis P. Garvan, president of the Chemical Foundation, has established "The John J. Abel Fund for Research on the Common Cold" and the medical authorities of Johns Hopkins University are to make a five-year study of the subject.

This work will be directed by a committee of which Dr. Lewis H. Wood, dean of the Johns Hopkins Medical School, is chairman, the other members including Dr. William H. Howell, Dean of the School of Hygiene and Professor of Physiology; Dr. Carroll G. Bull, Professor of Immunology; Dr. Warfield T. Longcope, Professor of Medicine and physician in chief to the hospital; Dr. Wade H. Frost, Professor of Epidemiology; and Dr. Samuel J. Crowe head of the Nose, Throat, and Ear Department of the hospital.

Everything that science can do will be done to ascertain the exact symptoms of the common cold, what causes it, how or why it is communicated from one person to another, and what treatment is most efficacious. It is hoped that the study will lead to a discovery whereby man can be made as immune to cold as he now is to typhoid fever, diphtheria, or any one of several other diseases.

How little is actually known about the cold is shown by the fact that there is no accepted definition of a cold. One authority says:

"Catching cold is a process of disturbed equilibrium of the blood vessels. It is usually due to excessive exposure from the skin caused by drafts of air, to which is added contraction of the blood vessels of the periphery of the body, with consequent engorgement and congestion in some internal organ."

If you do not care for that definition, or do not know what it means, you may accept the theory of other authorities that we catch cold by breathing in or otherwise acquiring a cold germ. On one thing all authorities are agreed—the common cold is a dangerous thing to trifle with, for it predisposes to more severe affections such as pneumonia, influenza, laryngitis, and what not. There is an old saying to the effect that if you treat a cold you will get rid of it in two weeks, and that if you let it alone it will last fourteen days, but doctors say that no one with common sense lets a common cold alone.

COLDS ARE EXPENSIVE

This most common of the ailments to which man is heir is decidedly expensive and it presents an economic problem as well as one for science to tackle. Colds cost the United States a tremendous sum in the course of a year.

The first item is the expense of curing or treating them. The nation's annual drug bill runs to $500,000,000, and considerably more than half is

DAILY HINTS FOR HEALTH

OVEREATING TO PRODUCE HEAT IS SERIOUS ERROR

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBURN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

It is generally believed that people require much less food in hot weather than in cold, because the amount of heat required for the body is less.

On the other hand, the heat produced in the body is regulated by physical means and the amount of heat in the body is controlled largely by the amount of heat lost rather than by that taken in.

Since we wear clothes, our bodies live constantly in a temperature about 90 degrees F., so that the body must produce enough heat to balance the loss of heat necessary to warm the surrounding atmosphere is relatively small.

In the tropics, one does not attempt to diminish the amount of heat produced by the body in order to adjust the balance, but rather to increase the loss of heat from the body by wearing thinner clothes.

CLOTHING ADJUSTMENT

In the same way when one goes to a very cold district he requires more heat to keep his temperature up to the normal level. He does not produce this heat by eating much more food, but by wearing clothes that prevent heat loss from the surface of the body.

Indeed, the overfilling of the stomach to produce an increased amount of heat would be a serious error. Of course, the foods of persons living in extremely cold climates are those that provide the largest number of calories.

Thus the Eskimo consumes great quantities of fat. As is emphasized by R. Hutchison, even the milk of the walrus in Arctic regions contains 40 per cent. of fat, so that its young are supplied with an abundant and compact source of fuel.

KEEPING BODY WEIGHT

A celebrated German investigator of nutrition name Ranke found that he had to eat as much food in summer as in winter in order to keep his body weight, even though his inclination to eat was much less in hot weather than cold.

If he disregarded his inclinations and ate enough to maintain his body weight, his health suffered, so that he believed that a slight loss of weight in summer months was inevitable and quite desirable.

On the other hand, investigators attribute the bad effects on his health to the fact that he had eaten too much protein food. These investigators emphasize that foods for the summer should avoid those that will make fuel rapidly and largely, especially fats.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York — In a Bowery barber shop there is a testimonial from none other than James J. Feffries, conceding that as a fixer of black eyes one Louis Alteris has few, if any, equals.

Today Louis asks you to read it and weep. For, though you comb the lower Bowery and though you wander the Brooklyn water front, you will no longer find those grand old specialists in black eyes. Old-fashioned brawls, it seems, are old-fashioned. Time was, you will learn, when no city election was complete without a young army of them. And then it was that they appeared at these barber shops to have their black eyes painted so that their friends would not suspect any more than was necessary.

At the last New York election, one gathers, not a blow was struck. And, if it was, the case is unknown. Now and then, in an obscure barber window, one may still come upon signs reading, "Black Eyes Painted." But they are rare indeed.

A Never-ending source of wonder in Manhattan is "where do people get the money?"

Recently, I made a tour of expensive cafes and near-expensive cafes in the Times Square belt. Each one was jammed to the doors. The average check to an average person, minus cocktails, was about $1.50 to $2. Practically every young man was accompanied by the "girl friend" and practically every table had a cup-billed den cocktails at $1 per cup. Which means that a bill of from $5 to $8 was waiting at the end of the lunch. From outward appearances, the average, lunch was a clerk or a hanger-on in one of the many branches of the theatrical business. Just how they can afford to spend $6 or $7 per day on lunches, is far beyond my comprehension. Yet thousands of them are doing it, and hundreds of resorts are flourishing.

This season, they tell me, New York is a bigger winter resort than ever. The word has gone forth that Manhattan is enjoying a mild winter and folk are flocking in from every part of the world looking upon their visit here — ironically enough — as a vacation. Hotel rooms are at a premium and, in the more central places, reservations have to be made many days ahead. Broadway is jammed at night as I have never seen it.

While, along 23rd street, where the fur trade has its heart, there are long faces at the window. For nobody affords to be buying furs. I heard of an exclusive place in the expensive shopping belt where a stock of $500,000 worth of new styled furs was lying untouched. Next year the particular furs will be out of style since this place does not dare be a day behind the fashions, a spirit of desperation is in the air.

can not be estimated, is the loss of human lives. Only recently a talented young woman artist whose work has appeared in newspapers throughout the country caught a bad cold and died within eight days of double pneumonia, and there is not a community that does not have a case similar to that all too frequently. How often the newspapers tell the story of a man or woman who did something or other and caught cold, with ensuing complications that resulted in death!

And practically all such deaths are an economic loss to the nation.

THE STORY THUS FAR
The story is laid in the Indian territory and along the Kansas border in the '80's, when a fight was being waged by the "Boomers" for the opening of the territory to settlement.

Chief characters are:
TONY HARRISON, orphaned at 13 when his father was murdered in a poker game.
PAWNEE BILL, adventurer, Indian interpreter and showman.
JOE CRAIG, who takes Tony to the Bar K ranch to live.
TITUS MOORE, owner of the Bar K.
RITA MOORE, his little tomboy daughter.

When Tony is 15, Rita and her mother depart for Virginia and the boy learns for the first time how much he cares for the little red-haired arrogant miss.

Word is received months later that DAVID PAYNE, leader of the "Boomers," and chief agitator for the opening of Oklahoma, is dead. Pawnee Bill is one of Payne's sympathizers, and so is Tony, although his benefactor, Titus Moore, opposes the opening with all his might. When Pawnee Bill goes out the following year with a wild show he takes Tony along, and when the boy returns Rita is back.

CHAPTER XXIX
They sang together, Rita's clear soprano sounding above the rest, her nimble fingers plinking fancy little runs on the guitar.

Tony Harrison felt the old loneliness creeping on him. They all looked so happy, so care-free, there beneath the moon. And he was desolate. Tomorrow she would be gone, and he would see her before the brief light of an old wound.

"Away out west where the tall grass grows."
Goodby, my lover, goodby:
I met my little parrie rose,
Goodby, my lover, goodby.

If only the others would get up and leave him and Rita alone. . . . But there they sat, without a care in the world, and Mrs. Moore, a satisfied smile on her lips, doubtless contemplating with relief their return to the east.

He fancied that Mrs. Moore had been rather suspicious of him lately. Could it be that she had guessed his secret. And if that were so, what must she be thinking as she sat there listening to the singing?

Craig was improvising:
"I know a girl named Rita Moore,
Goodby, my lover, goodby:
And she'll have sweethearts by the score,
Goodby, my lover, goodby."

There was loud applause, especially from Titus Moore, who beamed happily and commanded each of the men in turn to try his hand at paraphrasing.

"I always did want to be a poet," Craig confessed. "I reckon all I needed was the inspiration."

Some of the attempts at improvisation were very ludicrous, but Tony lay back with his hands beneath his head and gazed at the stars. When his turn came and Titus Moore called to him, he begged off. The colonel, knowing his shyness, did not insist.

When Rita left the next morning she asked him to write to her. "And tell me all about Cherokee, Tony." Her hand lingered in his as she asked, "Are you going out with another show this fall?" she asked.

He thought so.
"Well, he sure to tell me if you meet your fate," she said mischievously. "Are you sure Pawnee Bill is a good chaperon?"

He smiled. "He needs one himself. He's sure in love—at least he was when I left him."

A few weeks later he encountered Pawnee Bill in Caldwell and was informed that arrangements had been completed for a tour with Buffalo Bill.

"The show opens in New York and is booked right across the continent to San Francisco. Like to go along?" It's not an ordinary wild west; it's a dramatic show. I can get you a part if you want it."

"I don't care much what I do; it's just the idea of going somewhere." Pawnee Bill nodded. "Sure, that's the way it struck me at first, but now I'm trying to learn the business. In a couple more years, if I have any luck, I'll have my own outfit."

A week later Tony left the Bar K, coming with the young showman to Pawnee to round up his Indians. The show had two names: "Buffalo Bill's Dutchman" and "Buffalo Bill's Prairie Wolf." Colonel Cody himself was with it only a short time, an actor named Matt Snyder playing the part of Buffalo Bill after the first few weeks.

Tony's admiration for his long-haired friend increased as the weeks sped.

EMPLOYEES SEEKING NEW NICKNAME FOR RAILROAD COMPANY

Becoming accustomed to the use of the new name of their employers is more of a task for Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad employees than the average person imagines according to the local office force. Not only is there the new name to speak correctly every time it is used in conversation, but practically all papers of the road must be stamped with the new name and the old one crossed out. Office forms with the new name of the road have not been received here. Pawnee Bill, the average reader forget, the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific is the new name for the old Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad better known as the Milwaukee road.

savings, for which Craig was trustee, to an open checking account.

Craig, when he read the letter, shook his head but wisely obeyed orders and said nothing to Titus Moore.

Having his finger, I guess," he mused. "Well, I haven't set him what you'd call a thrifty example." Sergeant he said to his horse, "you and I are betting that he has sense enough to know when to stop." But his heart was a little heavy.

Two nights before they left San Francisco, Pawnee Bill saw Tony Harrison knock a man into unconsciousness with one punch. They had gone into one of the numerous gambling halls and Tony had stepped up to the roulette wheel to lay a bet.

A large crowd was gathered around the layout, and as the young man moved up another man stepped in front of him and elbowed him out of the way.

Harrison's eyes blazed with anger. Without a word he grabbed the offender by the arm and swung him around. Pawnee Bill tried to take the fight on his hands. "If you haven't any manners I'll teach you some," he cried, and stepped between the two.

But Tony was not to be denied. "I'm aiming to do that myself," he said quietly. "Step out of the way," he ordered them and he elbowed him.

The man jerked his arm from Harrison's grasp. "Sure," he said, and swung his heavy fist.

The youth ducked. "Just for that you get it," he cried between his clenched teeth, and sent the other crashing to the floor with a blow to the jaw.

The ill-mannered one did not move. Several men bent over him and one dashed cold water in his face. Some who appeared to be his friends turned hostile stares on Tony and his long-haired friend and there were a few muttered threats.

But these failed to stampede the fair. "If anybody else wants a lesson in manners," Pawnee Bill pronounced calmly, "we'll try to accommodate."

There was no further trouble; cooler heads intervened, and presently the fallen man was sufficiently revived to get up and walk out. Tony insisted on finishing what he had started. When he and Pawnee Bill left the place he had won two hundred dollars at roulette.

But later that night Pawnee Bill had a word of admonition. "You'd better slow down a little, son; we're both of us moving a trifle too fast. Hereafter I'm going to be a regular model of propriety and start saving my money."

Mrs. Annie Schug Is 78 But She Enjoys Long Walks

Mrs. Annie Schug, Waverly Beach, Wis., is 78 years old. In my life I have never known a woman who has lived so long and enjoyed life so much as I have. I am the greatest of all hikers for my age. I have walked over 100 miles in the state. Each week with the exception of long days of severe winter weather, the little old lady starts out from Waverly Beach with an umbrella for a cane and her handkerchief for a pocket. "I always carry an umbrella," she says, "and that I am certain that the sun will shine today." This is a sample of her philosophy of life, the trend of reasoning that she has on a 10-mile hike each week.

Mrs. Schug's life is made because there is a visit to the end of the hike. She sets out at dawn, goes to Menasha, on to Appleton, and if the weather is fine, she continues to Kaukauna and then to Oshkosh.

MOTHER

A Cross, Feverish Child is Bilious, Constipated

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Fig Syrup," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without gripping.

When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother. It coated, gives a teaspoonful of this harmless, "fruity laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

When the little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhea, indigestion, constipation, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy, they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of cheap imitations sold here, so don't be misled by the get-up, made by the California Fig Syrup Company.

What Women Wear On The Riviera Now Indicates Fashion Trend For Spring

BY JEAN PATOU

Paris -- Fashion reviewers are usually much interested in the clothes women wear on the Riviera.

NEW ATMOSPHERE ESSENTIAL As a matter of fact this deduction is a little too "simple" for me, but it is sufficiently logical in the sense that couturiers are able to see in the models which women favor the ideas which have appealed to them in creations commented to their appreciation a few months previously.

STYLE MIRROR FAST APPROVAL The couturier has to feel what he can offer women in the way of new fashions in watching them live and it is in the evolution of women's way of living that every phase of fashions can be traced.

There was once a long break in the observance of Christmas in England. Cromwell, in 1644, forbade the festival and ordered that December 25 should be a day of fasting and penitence.

"GIDDAP there, bound," wee Iddap cried. "Real fast is how we like to ride." And then he said "I wish I had a whip to make him go. I'd crack it loud up in the air and that would give him quite a scare. It really isn't thrilling when he travels on so slow."

SAINT AND SINNER BY ANNE AUSTIN

A sharp rise in her temperature, brought on by the excitement of seeing Bob and Cherry, mercifully made it unnecessary for Faith to pretend anything at all for the rest of her first day in the hospital. By the doctor's orders, all visitors were excluded from the room.

Just before dawn Faith awakened from the fever-stupor in which she had lain almost motionless for hours. At first she was startled by the presence of the white-clad night nurse, who was stretched at ease in a high chair drawn close to the bed. It came to Faith gradually where she was and why; then the whole hideous tragedy which had brought her here swooped down blackly upon her.

DO YOU FOLLOW THE CROWD?

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THE bubble of psycho-analysis has burst. The followers of Freud are off on another path hunting for another bubble. But when they find it they will play with it for a while and then stick a pin in it, too. I am no follower of psycho-analysis. I never have been. But that is because I didn't know much about it. Perhaps I often wonder how much the people who have turned it down did or do know about it. That a lot of it was bunk is probably true, but that much of it must have been and still is good, is probably also true. It got into the hands of quacks, too, of course, for there are more kinds of quacks than the medicine-show man.

TOWNSROTARY HEARS HOW MANAGER CAN SAVE
MONEY FOR CITYTwo Rivers Manager Explains
Operation of Plan and His City's Experience

Kaukauna—Operating a city isn't any different than operating a large industrial corporation in the opinion of Richard Biehl, city manager of Two Rivers, expressed at the weekly luncheon of the Kaukauna Rotary club Wednesday noon in the Legion building.

"First of all," Mr. Biehl said, "you must have the cooperation of the city council. The same is true of a city. The directors select a competent business manager and he in turn appoints efficient heads for the various departments. Successful operation of the city depends upon the cooperation of the city council and the city manager. The city manager is responsible in the city manager form of government the citizens elect a commission which may consist of from three to nine members. This commission elects a responsible man as city manager and the city manager places men at the head of various departments who are directly responsible to him. The city manager keeps his job as long as his administration is satisfactory and when it isn't he is removed by the commission. He is held responsible for anything that goes wrong in the operation of the city. Legislative matters are brought before the commission while the city manager has sole charge of the administration of the city."

STARTS IN SOUTH

"This most successful type of city government has really started in the state of California. That city was in destitute straits and the council decided to get what might be termed a city superintendent."

"He was engaged at a salary of $1,500 a year and so successful was his work in the first year that his salary was increased to $2,000. He afterwards until he reached $4,000 a year. Now this same city manager is in California in a similar capacity and is receiving $25,000 a year. From that village the plan spread to Virginia, other nearby states then throughout the country and now there are about 400 cities operated under the plan which Cincinnati and Cleveland are the largest. Large deficits in most instances caused the change from the council-mayor plan and within a few years the cities were operating on a sound financial basis."

"The city manager is elected to the new form of city government in the latter part of 1924 with a deficit of approximately $50,000. At the end of six months this was reduced to $30,000 and in 18 months the entire deficit was wiped out and the treasury showed a balance of $10,000."

"The city manager serves without pay, it only takes about two or three hours of their time twice a month. Cities the size of Two Rivers and Kaukauna usually pay their managers $5,000 per year. Members of the commission are elected at large. They fix the tax rate and pass on the city's program which has been planned by the city manager. In most instances the salaries of mayors in small cities are not large enough to warrant devoting considerable time to proper administration of the city."

"Kaukauna is fortunate in having most successfully operated electrical power and water plants. Mr. Fosson is recognized as one of the most efficient managers in the entire country and you are to be congratulated on having his services."

"We in Two Rivers have been using your electrical plant as a model and have been attempting to operate it as successfully and at as low a cost. To date although we have been fairly successful in showing results, we haven't quite reached the standard set by Kaukauna. Because of many repairs our water plant is not showing the large surplus we would like to have it."

"Under our plan of government many unnecessary employees, parasites on the city pocket book, are weeded out and activities of several departments are combined to eliminate other unnecessary help. All of the employees are employed by the city manager and he has the absolute power to 'hire and fire.' But it is a mistaken opinion to think that the first thing a city manager does is to clean house and rid of all old officials and employees. Instead the manager watches them closely and only rids the city of those which are not qualified for their jobs. Police and fire departments are kept efficient at all costs. Employees are given salaries commensurate with their ability."

"There is always petty grafting in the council-mayor plan of government and it is eliminated in the new form. Under a city manager no employee is his own purchasing agent. A central purchasing station is maintained and all purchases are made through it. Two Rivers we have set up stock rooms and have engaged a stockkeeper."

"Three years ago when I came to Two Rivers the streets were in terrible condition. Now the main streets are all paved with a permanent paving, none of which are less than 36 feet wide. Although we have made a quarter of a million dollars worth of improvements since 1924 our bonded indebtedness is only $50,000."

FISHERMEN TALK OVER THEIR PROBLEMS

Sigman Attends Meeting With Representatives of Conservation Commission

Problems of commercial fishermen operating on Lake Michigan were discussed with W. A. Icks, representative of the state conservation commission at the Beaumont hotel, Green Bay, Wednesday night by members of the Wisconsin Federation of Commercial Fishermen, Samuel Sigman, local attorney, a director of the fishermen's association, attended the meeting called to give Commissioner Icks an idea of state fishermen's problems so he might discuss them with conservation representatives of other Great Lakes states and draft laws regulating commercial fishing.

The question of natural or artificial spawning was one of the problems considered. Many fishermen want a closed season from the middle of October to late December, the general spawning season. These fishermen maintain that nature can best take care of spawning and if the fish are left along they will propagate rapidly.

Fishermen opposed to the closed season claim that artificial spawning under state supervision is best. They maintain that lake conditions now are such that young fish die in great numbers and should be taken care of until they are able to make their own way. Milwaukee fishermen especially advanced this argument claiming the lake bottoms to the south are covered with poisonous materials from rivers that kill young fish and keep eggs from hatching.

The problem of netmeshes also came in for considerable discussion.

ORDER NEW PLANS FOR WISCONSIN-AVE PAVIN

Engineer Also Instructed to Study Grade and Make Recommendations

New plans and specifications for a pavement on Wisconsin-ave from N. Richmond-st. to N. Meade-st. was ordered by the common council at its meeting Wednesday night at request of L. M. Schindler, city engineer. The engineer also was instructed to investigate the grade established on that street and to recommend changes he thinks necessary.

Mr. Schindler told the councilmen he had already investigated plans and specifications prepared about a year ago when the council decided to pave that street. He said he investigated the grade and found that in one place the pavement would be a foot above the sidewalk while in another it would be from two to three feet below.

The council also ordered the engineer to prepare plans for a pavement on Water-st.

A petition to the council asking Mayor A. C. Rule to appoint a committee to revise the city ordinances governing electrical fixtures and workers was approved and Mayor Rule is to appoint the committee within a few days. The petition was from a group of Appleton electricians.

FAIRBANKS FILM A ROLLICKING ROMANCE

Film enthusiasts will welcome the appearance of Douglas Fairbanks today and Friday at Fischer's Appleton theatre, where seating accommodations will be taxed to the limit.

Douglas Fairbanks as The Gaucho is a United States picture of Gauchos, pilgrims, bandits and conquest, and is heralded as a romance of unusual force and spectacular appeal. The scenes are laid on the South American border in the pampas countries. Picturesque riding, vast herds appear, and there is a whirl of fierce conflict and plot suspense. The capture of the rich shrine of the nose of the dictator of the country begins the story proper, culminating in a spectacular prologue.

In the cast: Lupe Velez, as a wild, mountain girl; Eve Southern, as "the girl of the miracle"; Gustav von Serferitz, the usurper; Michael Vavitch, his lieutenant; Charles Stevens, a Gaucho aide; Nigel de Brulier, the padre; Al MacQuarrie, a beggar; Fred de Silva, a cavalry officer, and C. L. ta Monti, a dancing girl.

"WHIP WOMAN"

The gay cafes of Budapest, and the night life of that city in the days after the war, provide a colorful background to the highly dramatic story, "The Whip Woman," a First National Picture which comes to the Elite for a 5 day engagement starting tomorrow.

Estelle Taylor is cast in the title role of this sensational story, with Antonio Moreno playing opposite her. In this novel setting is unfolded a story that fairly takes one's breath, and which holds interest from start to finish.

It deals with a beautiful peasant girl, who is adored by all men but who repulses them with blows from the whip she always carries. Hating all men, she finally falls in love with a dissolute nobleman, and then begins a series of adventures which culminate with a thrilling climax and an entirely unexpected ending.

"The Whip Woman" was produced by Robert Kane and directed by Joseph C. Boyle under the supervision of Allan Dwan. It is a novel story, entirely off the beaten path of ordinary pictures and offers a fine chance for the splendid dramatic work of Estelle Taylor and Moreno, who were ideally cast in the leading roles.

"The Whip Woman" has been one of the most successful pictures of the year and again demonstrates that Estelle Taylor is one of the most dramatic actresses on the screen today.

TRIPPERS CANNOT TAKE STATE CLIMATE ON JAUNT

Madison—(AP)—Cooling Wisconsin climate cannot be carried into the sunny south as the Wisconsin Official southern tour starts next Tuesday, as officials of the train, which will advertise Wisconsin down continent have had to improve on nature.

Learning from the several cars that will carry Wisconsin dairy products has been provided, after several attempts. The railroad officials pledged plenty of ice in the yards along the way, but ice-boxes had to be provided. None were immediately obtainable that would fit the apportioned spaces for the exhibits, and the four officials the probable messiness of melting ice and inconvenience of loading and keeping the ice.

The ice machine was suggested. James Vint, commissioner of markets, who has charge of this section of the train, immediately set electricians to work changing the electrical contrivances of the ice machines to coincide with the current to be supplied on the train. Carpenters went to work on cabinets that will fit the desired space and on arrangements for installation of the machines.

This week the dairy exhibits are being received, placed in the cars and arranged according to counties, sections, exhibitors and icing facilities.

WISCONSIN COLLEGES FORM NEW ATHLETIC CONFERENCE

Ripon, Beloit, Carroll And Lawrence Band Under Stricter Set Of Rules

S. F. Shattuck, Neenah, Is Named Commissioner for New Sport Group

Four of the oldest colleges of Wisconsin, including Lawrence of Appleton, have been organized into a new athletic conference, known as the Wisconsin Intercollegiate Athletic Association, and they will start their activities as a conference with the football season next fall, according to an announcement made Thursday by the Lawrence college athletic department.

Other members of the group are Beloit, Ripon, of Carroll and Carroll of Wausau. The conference is based on the same general principals that govern the larger university conferences, such as the Big Ten, and it will have a commissioner who will serve as final arbiter in any difficulties that should arise, such as Major John L. Griffith. It probably will be familiarly known as the Little Four.

S. F. Shattuck of Neenah has been selected as commissioner, which will be the head of the executive board of the conference. The board will consist of a faculty representative of each school. Mr. Shattuck, who is in full accord with the principles of the conference which will be outlined further in the story, has spent a great deal of his time since from his duties as treasurer of the Kimberly-Clark Paper Co. of Neenah in developing higher ideals and better sportsmanship among the boys of Wisconsin.

He is donor and financial backer of Camp Onaway, the island camp for boys in the Chain O'Lakes, Waupaca, and has personally organized boys' clubs in his home city.

Mr. Shattuck is, moreover, a "blood relation" of three of the four colleges of the association. He, himself, is a trustee of Carroll college, his wife is a trustee of Lawrence and his father-in-law, F. J. Harwood, well-known Appleton boys' worker, is a trustee of Ripon.

HOLD FRESHMAN RULE
Seemingly it is to be abandoned by member schools and the full first year eligibility is to be enforced in all sports, the first time all Wisconsin colleges have agreed to it in conference. This does not exclude freshmen from varsity competition, but requires a year's residence of students transferring from other schools, whether they are freshmen or seniors.

The year of the transfer to count as one of competition. This also will enable the schools to always play Big Ten teams if they so desire.

Athletes in order to participate in contests must maintain a high scholastic standing throughout the year. The grades for the semester as well as the concurrent term will be counted in the determination of standing.

WON'T EMPHASIZE WINNING
The new conference will not determine championships or place emphasis on winning teams, but rather will tend to develop and maintain a high standard of sportsmanship coupled with a friendly rivalry.

When the activities of the new conference start with football next fall all of the teams will not be able to meet all other teams of the group the first season, since having already arranged their schedules independently, there are many conflicts. Carroll and Lawrence, however, had a common open date, Nov. 17, and they have arranged to play at Appleton on that weekend.

"We have drawn up these conference agreements," a statement issued by the presidents of the four colleges, under whose personal direction the conference was formed, states, and have declared our purposes to live in the spirit of the letter of them. We have a commissioner who is the final arbiter and we believe that under such an arrangement there is no honest reason for any sort of mutual recriminations.

"The presidents of the colleges of this conference want definitely and clearly to declare themselves in a way that the public can appreciate, that though athletics have a valuable place in the college purposes, it is clearly our conviction that the primary in athletics is true sportsmanship rather than victory or defeat.

"We have no sympathy with any form of athletic shopping. We deprecate all forms of mercenary inducements, over-emphasis on coaching, illegitimate recruiting or exploiting of championships. We do not want our friends to evaluate the high purposes of college merely in terms of sports.

"To promote the good in athletics and to abate the evils, we have drawn up this instrument."

STARS OF GAMES FAIL TO RECEIVE REWARDS
Los Angeles, Cal.—Although Herb Fleishacker and Dick Worden played hero roles in the two most important Stanford games this year, neither was awarded a football letter for work this season.

In giving out the letters, the award committee refused them to the two youngsters because they had not played the required number of minutes for an award.

Fleishacker was the hero in the 12-13 tie with Southern California and Worden was the deciding factor in the Pittsburgh-Stanford game on New Year's Day.

THINKS SON IS A HORNSBY

Nobody in baseball believed the owners of the New York Giants when they said that big Frank Hogan was almost as good a ball player as Rogers Hornsby. But his mother, Mrs. Della Hogan, who is supported in grand style by the baseball earnings of her huge son, thinks he is greater than Hornsby and the best player in baseball. Young Frank showed form with the Boston Braves last year that indicated he was one of the coming catchers of the game, but he gets fat easily and he has to labor all winter as he is shown, left, with half a tar roof on his shoulder. In the upper picture, he is shown with his mother.

JUNIOR BOOSTERS HOLD RIVALS TO ONE POINT

APPLETON HIGHS THIRD IN VALLEY LOOP SCORE RACE

Orangemen Have Scored 82 Points to Trail Oshkosh, West Bay Quints

With only Rafoth and Bowby among the leading scorers of the Fox River Valley High School Athletic conference, Appleton high school's basketball team still clings to third place among high scoring teams of the loop. Oshkosh is on top with 94 points, an average of over 23 points a game. West has second with 89 and Appleton is third with 82, an average of 21 a game. Manitowoc is fourth with 65, but it has played only three games so its average is more than 21 a game, just slightly better than the Orange. The low scoring team is Fond du Lac which has 34 or about 9 points a game.

RAFOTH IS THIRD
Rafoth dropped to third place in the loop high scoring honors when he made only one basket against Manitowoc, being replaced by Pugh of Oshkosh, who had been third. Pugh scored nine points against West Green Bay to head the Orange played by two points. Two points behind Rafoth is his rival of Friday evening, Gorychka, who led the Manitowoc scoring. Though playing in one less game, he is among the leaders and has 25 points in three games, a better average than any of the three leaders but Herbert. Bowby, Appleton forward, is in a triple tie for eighth in the loop with 14 points as the result of his three baskets against Manitowoc Friday.

Free Horns For Kids To Boost School Band Here

Boys and girls of Appleton this year have the opportunity to take part in a great project which will ultimately result in school and civic pride—the school band.

An education in the playing of any band or string instrument does not cost father a young fortune as it did a few years ago, for Johnny and Mary may borrow one of the shiny new instruments purchased by the city for the use of the children of Appleton public schools. Saxophones, bassoons, flutes, clarinets, cornets, French horn, cellos, violas, violins—Johnny may choose.

If he selects the clarinet he meets twice a week with those who study saxophone, flute, and other reed instruments under the direction of E. C. Moore, head of the instrumental services course at Lawrence Conservatory of Music which was inaugurated for the first time this year.

If Johnny's taste runs to the cornet, he meets with the group who have selected the trombone, French horn, and brass instruments. Or he may still choose from another group—the strings, under the supervision of Miss Frances Moore, instructor of Cello at Lawrence Conservatory.

The instruction in band instruments begins with the junior high school, including St. Joseph, Wilson, Roosevelt, and McKinley. The three groups, brass, reed, and strings meet separately twice a week.

Johnny first learns all about the instrument that he has selected to study—its construction and the principle which underlies its manipulation. Then he learns vibration of his lips, correct fingering for his particular instrument, and the right way to hold it. These are the phases of introduction to playing that every child must know preliminary to actual handling of the instrument.

The two classes in band instruments are now meeting together in order to produce variety and diversity in the work of the different schools. Mr. Moore said. After some progress has been indicated, some of the pupils who play brass or reed instruments will go over into the string class to help form a symphony orchestra. Mr. Moore plans to have the classes meet every day next year under the immediate supervision of himself and the students majoring in instrumental supervisors course at the conservatory. The students in this course of instrumental music are not ready this year to take charge of the junior high schools but next year Mr. Moore believes they will be able to handle the work.

By the time junior high school pupils reach the senior high school a first and second band and a symphony orchestra are planned. The background of class instruction which these junior high school pupils are receiving at present should produce one of the best high school bands in the country, according to Mr. Moore. The first band of the high school will eventually consist of about 75 members, he said.

Pupils of the junior high schools who show any marked ability in playing band instruments are given a kind of scholarship, entitling them to individual instruction each week with ad-

511 DOG LICENSES ISSUED THIS YEAR

Appleton Residents Buy Protection for Pets Before Police Get List

A total of 511 dog licenses were issued by Fred H. Bachman, city treasurer, up to closing hour Tuesday afternoon. The last date for securing dog licenses is set by state law on Jan. 31, according to Mr. Bachman, and as soon as the list of delinquents have been completed it will be turned over to police for collection.

Mr. Bachman said 92 licenses were issued Monday and 98 on Tuesday. This was the largest number of dog licenses issued in one day for many years, Mr. Bachman said. Last year more than 800 licenses were sold, indicating that there still are 300 dogs in the city without tags.

All dogs more than six months old must carry tags. Mr. Bachman said, and licenses will be issued at the city hall until the list is ready to turn over to the police. The fee is $1 for males and $2 for females.

GRAIN CROP PROFITS OFFSET 1927 POTATO LOSSES, EBLING FINDS

FARMERS DID NOT LOSE LARGE AMOUNT STATISTICIAN CLAIMS

Early Harvested Grains Yielded Well but Others Suffered, He Says

Madison, Wis., Feb. 2.—The 1927 crop years brought forth a production about the average of other years, according to Ebling, agricultural statistician of the state and, federal crop reporting service says.

Grain and crop prices generally have advanced somewhat as compared with 1926, though so far as the Wisconsin farmer is concerned this is not reflected in his income to any large extent, Mr. Ebling finds.

The year started out with a late, cold, wet spring, delayed seeding and a general unpromising outlook. Plenty of rain and some favorable growing weather, however, helped to produce the biggest hay crop Wisconsin has ever harvested under favorable weather conditions so far as to insure a quality that is above average.

The early harvested grains yielded well, but the late grain crops suffered from hot and cold weather during the later part of July and early August, he says.

Corn had a poor outlook throughout most of the season. It had a late start and progressed slowly all through the summer. This fall, however, was fairly favorable and the corn production exceeded expectations. The increase in silage during the month of September was unusual.

The states potato crop suffered much from dry weather and fell far below expectations of early part of the season. One may believe 1927 was a year of fairly good grain and feed crops and rather unfavorable to most Wisconsin cash crops.

In spite of a number of price and production changes, the December 1, farm value of Wisconsin's 1927 crops equals almost exactly that of 1926. Because of rather good yields in most of the grain crops and somewhat of an advance in the price of corn, oats, barley and rye, the farm value of seven cereals for 1927 exceeds that of the previous year by nearly thirteen million dollars.

Potatoes on the other hand, made low yields and suffered a big price reduction so that the 1927 farm value of this crop is over twelve million below that of 1926.

SALT PLANT CAUSE OF TREES' ACTIVITY

Agricultural Phenomena Results When Plant Closes Down and Then Opens

Pomeroy, O.—A freak of agriculture is bringing horticulturists from all over the country to visit the little village of Syracuse in southeastern Ohio.

This district achieved notable distinction for its never failing crops of damson plums. That is, the crops never failed until 10 years ago, and then quite suddenly all the trees failed to bear fruit.

This total failure continued for five years and then with surprising suddenness the trees took on new life and produced abundant crops of damson plums once more.

A large salt and bromine plant located in the district is said to be responsible for the trees' queer actions. The village of Syracuse was settled about 75 years ago by coal miners.

With the settlement of the district and the opening of the coal mines came a great salt plant. Salt was produced in this plant by the considerable smoke and salt vapors to evaporation process which caused to fill the air.

In connection with the salt-making, bromine was made from the residue of the salt brine.

Ten years ago this salt and bromine plant went out of business. The second year afterward the plum crop failed for the first time in the history of the village.

Then the salt and bromine plants were restored and the first year thereafter the plum crop came back and the trees took on a thrifter look. They have borne every year since.

Fruit growers from many sections have visited this village and marveled at what seems certain to be the effect of salty vapors on plum trees.

The question that is now puzzling horticulturists is what effect salt vapors have on fruit trees, and especially trees that bear plums. Or was it just a coincidence that the salt plant and the damson plum trees took a five-year vacation at the same time?

THIS FARMER LUCKY WITH TWIN CALVES

Nine Pair Have Been Born to Cows Owned by William Gens, of Lebanon

New Lebanon—Twin Ayrshire calves were recently born on the farm of William Gens, town of Lebanon. The youngsters are both fine specimens and all are doing fine. The Ayrshire matron is producing milk in a noteworthy manner, for, in addition to feeding her sturdy offspring, is able to contribute two thirds of a full pail of milk to her owner.

According to the Lebanon farmer he has during the years of his farm experience had many cows which produced twin calves that in one winter on a farm in Bondel four sets of twins were born three years in succession to one mother, and at their farm on the ledge, owned before moving to Lebanon, Mr. Gens asserts that one other pair of twin calves were born.

THIS HORSE POWER IS STRONGER THAN MOST HORSEPOWER

Cherokee, Ia.—A horsepower is misnamed, say horse owners and breeders, especially the owners of "Cay" and "King," the half-Belgian and half-Percheron team.

These horses, weighing 3700 pounds, pulled 3475 pounds a distance of more than 27 feet. That's like starting 15 or 20 times, a load of 45,120 pounds on granite block pavement.

Using a dynamometer, measuring the strength of these horses, showed a pull of 23 horsepower.

FINANCIAL RELIEF IS NOT ONLY WORRY IN FARM AID BILLS

Labor Situation, Fair Taxes, and Freight Problems Must Also Be Solved

Chicago—The farmer's problem isn't the lone matter of financial relief, but one that varies all the way from immigration to research and education, according to a special committee of the American Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities.

After six months of investigation, the committee reports that no single relief act can solve the complex agricultural situation in America. At the same time, however, its members have summarized some of the more important improvements that might hasten relief. These are:

1.—Control of surpluses—by adjustment in acreages and livestock, withholding new land from cultivation, greater use of storage facilities, second marketing, through educational campaign to transfer more of the credit from merchants to banks, and authorization to federal intermediate credit banks or some other agency to make capital loans on the amortization plan to co-operatives.

2.—Alleviation of the farm labor situation through some other method than relaxation of immigration laws.

3.—WANT TO HELP SELVES.—Keeping tariff rates on agricultural products on a level with those on the products of other industries.

4.—Considerable extension of the co-operative form of business and avoidance of a paternalistic attitude on the part of the government.

5.—Changes and adjustments by individual farmers in communities they produce, in methods of production and in the size of their business.

6.—Continuations of research to improve methods of economical crop and livestock production and economic and social conditions, together with improved educational opportunities for the farmer and his children.

7.—Enactment of broad permanent legislation that will enable agricultural communities to meet emergencies as they arise and that will provide for equalization of taxes, tariff and freight rates.

8.—FARM INCOME HALVED.—In conclusion the committee reports that since 1920 agriculture has received only a little more than 10 per cent of the total current income of the United States, whereas from 1909 to 1919, inclusive, agriculture received not less than 20 per cent of the total income of the country.

The report points out that this reduced income is not due to lack of production efficiency on the part of the farmer, and that too great a responsibility for the condition of agriculture are placed upon the farmer himself.

Discontented Wife Starts Husband On New And Profitable Venture

Largo, Fla.—A little more than three years ago the wife of a traveling salesman revolted against a life of solitude and idleness and invested $5 for 10 baby ducks. Six were hens and four were drakes, all native Muscovies.

That handful of ducks grew so fast that in a little over a year the husband had to quit the road and take a hand in running what had become a sizable duck farm. Today F. N. LaPont and his wife are preparing to move their colony of more than $800 ducks to a 14-acre plot of ground near Tarpon Springs.

This, in short is the story of the remarkable success of two persons who originally knew nothing about ducks.

Almost as unusual is the fact that not a quack can be heard over the entire 15-acre farm the LaPonts are quitting for larger quarters. Next to this is the additional fact that these model ducks are as much at home on land as they are on water. They grow just as fat, are just as healthy, and appear to be having just as good a time if water's nowhere to be found except in drinking troughs.

REPAID IN SHORT TIME
The rise of the LaPonts in the duck business has been remarkably rapid. At the end of 18 weeks, Mrs. LaPont sold three of the full grown drakes for $15, which covered the entire cost of all ducklings and their feed and had six hens and a drake left for further breeding.

At the end of a year, Mrs. LaPont had sold dozens of eggs and full-grown ducks, at a good profit. Before two years were gone, she had 225 ducks and had to commandeer her husband from his traveling work. Then they started in earnest.

LaPont imported six South American Muscovy ducks for breeding. Their cost him $150, but have repaid him a hundred fold.

At the end of another year, LaPont found he had made $7000 net profit. He made this from the sale of table ducks, table eggs, breeding eggs, baby ducklings and breeding stock.

BUSINESS GROWS FAST
How fast LaPont's ducks have grown in number may be realized from the fact that he had 1200 ducks when he moved his 15-acre farm here last March. Today he is preparing to move more than 8000 quackless Muscovies to his newly purchased 40-acre tract near Tarpon Springs.

An investment of $2000 on a leased five-acre piece of land can start anyone into a successful duck business says LaPont.

"About $500 would be needed for feed houses, nests, fences and shelters for the baby ducks," he says. "Incubators would make an additional expense for farms outside of Florida."

"The farmer should start with 1000 baby ducks. These cost about $500 for the best breeders. The cost of raising them to maturity would be about $1000."

PROFITS IN SIX MONTHS
"At the end of 18 weeks, 500 of the ducks could be sold for at least $4 each, netting the farmer about $2000. This would repay him for the equipment, baby ducks and feed and he would still have 500 ducks for breeding purposes."

At six months the hens begin laying and in 18 more weeks or so the farmer begins to reap net profits after his original costs have been disposed of almost from the very start.

But LaPont emphasizes a fundamental rule for success in this game. "Be sure to give your buyers a uniform product. Sell the ducks for exactly what they are and you'll be a lot better off in the long run."

The LaPonts know, for that is their secret of success, they contend.

Soy Bean With Little Oil Is Soft Pork Preventive

Washington, D.C.—Too much fat in the feed is a primary cause of soft pork.

For that reason an entirely new soybean strain may be developed in the United States—one whose oil content is less than 6 per cent.

Recommendation of such a soybean has been made by E. Z. Russell, of the Department of Agriculture, who declares that if the total fat content of a hog's feed is very much in excess of 6 per cent soft pork is likely to result.

Under Russell's plan two distinct types of soy-bean, exact opposites, would be grown in the future. The soybean maker wants a product of high oil content. Already that property may run from 12 to 24 per cent in the bean now grown.

"Frankly," Russell says, "we do not know whether reducing oil content will affect palatability, thereby making the soy-bean unsuitable for feed."

bean of high oil content has been produced by breeding, and we believe one of low content can be produced by the same process. If the farmer can grow his own protein feeds, necessary to the hog industry, and avoid soft-pork production, his profits will increase materially."

Without high germination, Jacques feels that all the other virtues of high grade seed are impaired. Corn dried to 13 per cent moisture in about 72 hours, as is possible with the new drying outfit, shows no evidence of mold, and the kernels and cob are bright and clean. The grower is assured that the quick dried corn will be free from disease than that which is cured by the usual methods.

By forcing hot air into specially constructed bins, Wright, with one of his colleagues F. W. Duffie, has been able to hurry up the drying of seed corn to about three days. The usual drying generally requires about three weeks. Although the new drying outfit may not be adapted to the use of small corn producers, the college agronomist feels that it offers important advantages to the growers of large quantities of pedigreed seed. Six of the dryers were used in the state this past fall.

GIVE SHORT COURSE IN ELECTRIFICATION
Madison, Wis.—A three-day short course in rural electrification will be given by the college of agriculture, Feb. 14-16. It is designed to train employees of public utilities in dealing with farm clients, according to F. W. Duffie, of the state college.

The school is being put on by the college in cooperation with the Wisconsin committee on the application of electricity to agriculture and the Wisconsin utilities association.

"Public utilities have for some time felt the need of a systematic method through which men could be trained for the very difficult task of servicing their farm customers," Mr. Duffie said in commenting on the new course.

"The rural electric service man must not only understand electricity and farming, but also keep abreast of modern developments in the application of electricity to agriculture."

LIST FRUITS THAT HAVE PROVEN TO BE BEST IN WISCONSIN

Careful Selection Necessary for Good Crop, Agriculturist Says

Madison, Wis.—The Wisconsin farmer who wishes to raise fruit for his own use will be most successful with apples, plums, cherries and berries, according to James G. Moore, of the college of agriculture staff.

Pears are of uncertain development in this state except close to Lake Michigan, and only the Early Richman and the Montgomery cherries are recommended for culture in southern Wisconsin. Peaches seldom give satisfactory results and while an occasional crop may be secured, the trees are usually short-lived.

Mr. Moore said Tuesday evening in an address from the University radio state.

Apple varieties suggested for Wisconsin orchards by Mr. Moore in the order of ripening are, Chatham, Oldenburg, commonly called Duchess, Wealthy, St. Lawrence, McIntosh, Delicious, Fameuse or Snow, Salome, Northwestern Greening and Willow Twig. In the more favored sections there might be added Grimes' Golden, Jonathan, Northern Spy and Stayman's Winesap. All these, he said, are high quality eating apples and the last three well fitted for cooking.

Golden Sweet, summer, Baileys Sweet, fall, Pines Sweet and Tolman Sweet for winter are also recommended as good varieties. He does not recommend Golden Russet because it comes into bearing tardily, is inclined to be a shy bearer and stores poorly unless under unusually good conditions.

For crabapples, the Whitney, Florence, Virginia and Hyslop are on his list.

The European or blue plum can be grown fairly well in Southern Wisconsin. Lombard, Italian, Prune, Tatze and Damson do well at the experiment station grounds. Mr. Moore said. The new group of American hybrid plums give promise of becoming important in the home orchard. The undesirable characters of the Native or American plums have been eliminated in some of the new varieties and they are, he believes, much better adapted to canning and culinary uses than the varieties which have been commonly grown.

LaCrosse, Underwood, Tonia and Elliot of Minnesota origin and Maneta, Kahinta and Tokata produced in South Dakota, he said, make a good list from which selection can be taken.

Premier heads the list of early strawberries, with Senator Dunlap the most popular mid-season sort. Gibson is another good one for this season. Cooper he considers is a new mid-season variety which has earned considerable popularity.

Doubtless Aroma, Sample and Brandywine he considers satisfactory late varieties. Pearl is a new extra late sort which has not been tried out.

OKLAHOMA BOY MAKES $6,000 ON 4-H PROJECTS
Stillwater, Okla.—(AP)—Oklahoma's champion 4-H club boy, Orla E. Butler of Guthrie, Okla., has made farming pay him in a big way.

Butler's 4-H club projects have netted him $5,036 in ten years, while his contest and exhibition work brought him another $1,185.75 in cash and scholarships. During that time he has given talks and staged demonstrations before 21,731 persons.

Dairying and crop production have been his principal lines of activity, having won him state championships four different times.

Butler now is a student at Oklahoma A. & M. College here, where he is president of the freshman class.

His work is principally that of helping the farmer solve his problems, informing him of any new developments, and repairing any minor motor or appliance troubles that may be encountered.

The program has not as yet been completed but will include addresses from a number of men and women prominent in rural electrification work in the state and nation, and will deal principally with the various problems of rural electrification which are encountered daily by the electric service man.

IRRIGATED DESERT LAND YIELDS $83.30 PER ACRE

Carlsbad, N. M.—(AP)—Crops raised on the 22,733 acres in the Carlsbad federal irrigation project last year were valued at $1,397,890, or an average of $83.30 an acre.

In making public the 1927 crop valuations, officials in charge of the project pointed out that the large return was obtained from land which was considered a desert before water was made available 20 years ago.

The total value of the crops produced in 1927 was exceeded in only two previous seasons, 1919 and 1924, when the price situations were more favorable. Cotton was the most important crop last year, the production of 15,493 bales of 500 pounds bringing a money income of $1,892,552. The cotton crop was the largest in the history of the irrigation project and its return was $44.70 an acre.

enough to warrant Mr. Moore's recommending it, but is so highly prized that he believes it to be worthy of trial. Mastadon seems to him to be the best ever-bearer.

His list of raspberries and blackberries is short. Lathan and King, with Robert a possibility, are considered the best red raspberries. Of the gooseberries, Downing is the standard sort, but Forman, a new variety, may replace it, he said, if it does as well in Wisconsin as it has in the east. If gooseberries are thoroughly sprayed a large-fruited sort, such as the Smith Improved or Triumph may be grown.

While Concord is more grown in Southern Wisconsin than any other variety of grape, Mr. Moore believes that Worden is preferable. It is earlier than the Concord, and conditions in this state make an early grape desirable. Moores Early, a grape very similar to Concord, but even earlier than Worden, is another valuable sort. These three varieties he considers the most sure.

Of green grapes, a Niagara, similar to Concord in quality, is the hardest. Diamond is of better quality, but somewhat less hardy. Agawam, Delaware, and Brighton are the most satisfactory red varieties. Agawam is large, late of good quality. Delaware has small bunches and berries, but is the standard of quality in American grapes. Brighton is intermediate as to size, and similar to Agawam in quality.

Freshening Time is most critical period in the life of a cow or heifer. Don't ruin your cows by neglecting a retained afterbirth. If allowed to remain disease and blood poison may follow. The afterbirth should not be removed by force except in rare cases, as under such circumstances some parts will surely remain. These decompose and are absorbed, leaving the cow in a more dangerous condition than before.

COW CLEANER

Has a direct ripening effect upon the afterbirth, assisting Nature to enable it to come away of its own weight. A small investment will save a valuable cow. Avoid all danger by giving Dr. David Roberts Cow Cleaner before the cow freshens.

JACK LOCKWILL'S HELPING HAND

The Leaping Kangaroo looked very blue and dejected. "I wish I could get my reputation back as easily as you did your watch," he said. "It would be different if I wasn't hard up and in need of money. That's one reason why they're so quick to think I'm a thief." Lockwill clapped him on the back. "Brace up, Bunkie!" he cried. "I'll stick by you."

But as time passed and the mystery of the night robbery remained unsolved, Sinnott grew more downcast. He seemed to feel suspicion and distrust on all sides.

Then, one day, Jack caught Jerry making his best suit of clothes into a bundle. "I'm going to pawn them," Sinnott confessed, flushing. "I've got to have some cash."

BLAME CARELESSNESS FOR BIG STOCK LOSS

Use of Whips and Prods Reflects in Marketed Animals, Farmers Are Told

Madison—(P)—Several million dollars are lost to the livestock industry each year through careless treatment of cattle and hogs while in transit from the farm to the market, Dr. B. Rogers, of the Western Weighing and Inspection bureau said today in an address before the Wisconsin Farm Folks' Week at the College of Agriculture.

The losses arise from bruises made by whips and prods to the live animals while being driven, or while in transit, and from the death of animals, notably hogs, through being over-driven on the way to the shipping point, or over-crowded in railway cars.

Statistics compiled by the American Meat Packers Institute disclose that at 53 markets under federal control, the cut-away and discarded meat amounted to one-half pound per head, Dr. Rogers said.

The use of a large number of canvas "flapjacks" in stead of clubs in driving cattle had brought about a decrease in the bruised meat that must be cut away, but bruising is still one of our great national losses, he said.

Over-exercising and exhaustion of animals unaccustomed to active movement account for the loss of many market animals. While being fattened cattle and hogs are not given much exercise, and when they are ready for shipment their muscles are tender, and their hearts and lungs unprepared to have extra exertion placed on them, Dr. Rogers said.

Fattening the animals quickly for market develops the digestive organs at the expense of the heart and lungs and nearly all fat animals have only about 60 per cent of the lung capacity they should have for their body weight.

It is better to haul animals to the shipping point wherever possible, he said rather than drive them. They should not start on a railroad journey without their stomachs distended with food by feeding them in loading pens and cars.

Over-crowding is a cause of loss in all animals. Shippers should be careful Dr. Rogers contended, not to over-crowd the floor space of the railroad car. The cars should be clean, bedded with sand, and on hot days hung with at least six bags of ice. In 1919 he said, in the principal eastern markets, one dead hog was delivered for every 430 live hogs received.

In feeding animals, the right arrangement or proportion of the ingredients of the ration is of importance. Gustav Bohstedt of the university animal husbandry department said.

Much ailment and lack of efficiency of livestock can be explained from the basis of feeding, he asserted urging that farmers cooperate with the university in developing the most efficient feeding methods.

Telling of new developments in feeding, Mr. Bohstedt said the most recent generally accepted fact is that of the importance of direct sunlight or ultra-violet light on animals, being the equivalent of one of the highly essential vitamins.

The benefit from intimate contacts between college men and feeders is "decidedly mutual," he said. "College and station men are bound to be stimulated by such experiences where a dairyman or other stockman bares his problems consciously or otherwise presents suggestion. Let us hope that the farmer can derive a corresponding benefit on his side. Few farmers are in a position to experiment to any extent."

Heavy mortality among chickens is invariably associated with a ration deficient in the essential minerals. D. C. Kennard of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station, Wooster, O. said.

"Minerals are primarily concerned in the delicate alkali-acid balance of the blood, secretions and body tissues, which is so necessary," he said. "Without adequate essential minerals, the digestive and assimilative processes would be seriously hindered."

The minerals which are most likely to be deficient in usual rations fed to chickens are lime, phosphorus, chlorine and sodium, Kennard said. The most common cause of mineral deficient rations is the heavy feeding of scratch grain and the lessened consumption of the mash which usually results, he averred, adding that a liberal consumption of mash is necessary to supply adequate minerals for the grains which are deficient in this respect.

ANOTHER WEEK PASSES AND NO GIRLS PROPOSE

Although John E. Hantschel, county clerk, has issued 16 marriage licenses up to Tuesday not one of the couples have taken advantage of his generous offer to give a license free to the first couple to admit that the girl "popped the question."

"Leap year only comes once in four years and I want to do something to remember it," said Mr. Hantschel. "My offer still holds good and the first girl to admit she asked, 'Will you be mine,' gets the license free—and its little enough for all the trouble."
